COMMUNITY ENGAGED RESEARCH

My work creates collaborative spaces where art, movement, and dialogue foster cultural connection and social transformation. I believe embodied individual and collective experiences are essential for strengthening community, amplifying underrepresented voices, and cultivating deeper understanding across differences. The arts unlock our stories and the many identities we embody. Through self-awareness, we learn to walk through the world with intention, making choices that allow us to build, together, the world we want to live in.
